A BILL

To amend the National Security Act of 1947, as amended, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. Section 102(a) of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 403a) is amended to read as follows:

"(a) There is established under the National Security Council a Central Intelligence Agency with a Director of Central Intelligence who shall be the head thereof. The Director of Central Intelligence shall have two deputies: a Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency and a Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Intelligence Community. The Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency shall act for, and exercise the powers of, the Director during his absence or disability. Except for those authorities and responsibilities the delegation of which is prohibited by law, the Director may, to the extent he deems appropriate, delegate to each of these Deputy Directors respectively those authorities and responsibilities vested in him by law or by virtue of his position as Director of Central Intelligence and as head of the Central Intelligence Agency. The Director and the Deputy Directors shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, from among individuals in civilian life or from among the commissioned officers of the armed services whether in active or retired status: Provided, however, that at no time shall the two positions of the Director and the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency be occupied simultaneously by commissioned officers of the armed services, whether in an active or retired status.

SECTION 2. Section 5314 (36) of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking the word "Director" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Directors."

SECTIONAL ANALYSIS AND EXPLANATION

This draft bill amends subsection (a) of section 102 of the National Security Act of 1947 by creating two Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence in lieu of the one Deputy Director currently provided for in that section. In effect, the bill redesignates the existing position of "Deputy Director of Central Intelligence" as "Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency" and elevates the administratively-created position of "Deputy to the Director of Central Intelligence for the Intelligence Community" to the statutory position of "Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Intelligence Community," to be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Section 1:

The first sentence of amended subsection (a), establishing a Central Intelligence Agency headed by a Director of Central Intelligence corresponds to existing law.

The second sentence of amended subsection (a) replaces the existing single position of Deputy Director of Central Intelligence with two deputy positions: a Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency and a Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Intelligence Community.

The third sentence of amended subsection (a) provides that when the Director is absent or disabled, the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency shall act for the Director and exercise the powers of Director. Existing law places this responsibility on the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence.

The fourth sentence of amended subsection (a) permits the Director of Central Intelligence to delegate and apportion to each of the Deputy Directors their respective authorities and responsibilities. The scope and nature of such assignment is within the discretion of the Director but must be consistent with law.

The penultimate sentence of amended subsection (a) provides that the Director of Central Intelligence and both Deputy Directors of Central Intelligence shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, from among civilians or commissioned officers. This corresponds to existing law applicable to the Director and Deputy Director of Central Intelligence. Heretofore, however, the Director has appointed the "Deputy to the Director of Central Intelligence for the Intelligence Community," an administratively-created position.

The final proviso of amended subsection (a) assures that either the Director of Central Intelligence or the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence for the Central Intelligence Agency will be a civilian. This corresponds to existing law with respect to the Director and Deputy Director.

Section 2:

This section sets the rate of pay for both Deputy Director positions at level III of the Executive Schedule, which is the level of the present Deputy Director of Central Intelligence.
